ARCHAEOLOGICAL TECHNICIANS

Mid-Atlantic Region

Dovetail Cultural Resource Group (Dovetail) is accepting applications for Archaeological Technicians for projects throughout our service area. Our most immediate needs are for one technician in northern Virginia (Loudoun County) starting February 14, and three to four technicians for other projects in Virginia starting February 21. While the individual projects range from one to four weeks in length, we anticipate a minimum of four weeks of work for anyone hired, with high potential for additional work beyond that. Current project schedules are all Monday through Friday; hotel and per diem are available during the workweek for those not local to the project areas. We anticipate hiring additional Archaeological Technicians on other projects in the coming months, so applications are encouraged even if you are not available in the next couple of weeks.

Dovetail is a woman-owned cultural resource management firm headquartered in Fredericksburg, Virginia, with an office in Wilmington, Delaware, serving the greater Mid-Atlantic region. Our philosophy is centered on helping clients and agencies achieve their preservation goals while fostering an internal atmosphere of collaboration, sound science, and respectful interactions within our staff. The primary responsibility of the Archaeological Technician is to perform archaeological fieldwork, though responsibilities may also extend to performing background research, working in the laboratory, or performing data entry or similar office tasks. Work is on a project-by-project basis.

Minimum Qualifications: Completion of a Bachelor's degree in anthropology, archaeology, or a closely related field is preferred, though a minimum of four years of archaeological field experience within the cultural resource management industry may be substituted for education. Preference will go to candidates who have completed an accredited archaeological field school. Ability to dig, kneel, and crouch for extended periods of time, lift at least 40 pounds, and maintain adequate physical fitness to perform field tasks is critical, as is the ability to work outdoors in hot or cold temperatures, in conditions that may include wind, rain, and/or snow.

Please submit a cover letter (to include the date you are available to start and any geographic/travel restrictions), CV, and references to Nicki Sauvageau at nsauvageau@dovetailcrg.com.
